

NZMS Conference 2023: Music and Liveness Otago University School of Performing Arts, Te Korokoro o te Tūī Performing Arts centre June 16-18, 2023

Information for conference attendees

Venue:

The conference is being held in the Te Korokoro o te Tūī building at 141 Union St East, on what is known as the East Campus of Otago University. Union St East runs from the old university buildings down to the Forsyth Barr stadium and our school is at the mid-point. The new Performing Arts building is set off the road between the Robertson Library on one side, and the Otago Polytechnic Childcare centre on the other. The entranceway is directly opposite Harbour Terrace.

As you can see, the School of Performing Arts Te Korokoro building is three blocks down Union St East from the central old part of the university where Marama Hall and the Staff Club are located. When walking up to these buildings from our school, Union St becomes pedestrian-only at the corner with the Archway lecture theatres on one side and Allen Hall (the first of the old stone buildings) on the other. Walking down the side of Allen Hall on Union St, you turn right through the Archway to find Marama Hall. The Staff Club is just a further 50 metres down the pedestrian Union St crossing the Waters of the Leith.

Te Korokoro o te Tūī

The conference takes place in this fine new building and uses the main studio on the ground floor and room Koro 106 and the Social Space upstairs on the first floor. To find these latter two rooms, go up the stairs and walk past the small studios and contemporary performance teaching spaces (there are toilets here also) and go through two sets of fire doors. Koro 106 is on your right after the second door. The social space (where food and drink will be served) is a further twenty metres on from Koro 106. Toilets are located on the ground floor on your right when you enter the building, and on the first floor on your right before going through the fire doors. Toilets are marked by orange wall colouring!

Friday night conference dinner

Mains, vegetables, salads, desserts, water and tea and coffee are included in the price. There is a cash bar for drinks of your choice.

Name badges

Emeritus Professor Geoff Wyvil (Computing Science and a keen viol and recorder player) has produced magnetic name badges for us. We would like the plastic holders and magnets returned at the end of the conference. You are welcome to take the cardboard insert with you if you wish.

Schedule:

The conference schedule is attached alongside this information sheet.

Abstracts and Presenter biographies

A corrected version of the abstracts document has been uploaded to the NZMS website: <https://www.nzmusicology.org/information-for-delegates-2023.html>

Coffee: Cafes nearby:

Fluid is an excellent café on Union St East two blocks up toward the old campus on your right. There is a dairy beside it. These are both open throughout the weekend. Options on Friday only: Eden Café, which is in the Otago Polytechnic 'Hub' building on Union St East just before Fluid. One block further up on your left is the Te Matiti café in the University's Business School building. All of these cafes have vegan/GF/DF options available.